My dear Ivan,

After receipt of your kind letter of 5 June, I tried to contact you on two occasions while I was in New York, but each time found that you were out.

I was interested in finding out how you were coming along with your job prospects and whether you had heard anything from the Army on this subject. In any event, I would appreciate hearing about your progress and future prospects.

I find that Mr. Boboshevski's present address is not available since he either moved to other quarters in Vienna or out of the country. As far as the Ivan Kolev you mentioned in your letter, I am wondering if perhaps you have either omitted his third name or if you have not confused two people, since there is no knowledge of your friend having escaped with Boboshevski. I hope that I may have Mr. Nicoloff's address for you soon and will send it on to you.

I presume that by this time you have met many Bulgarians in and around New York and have a new circle of friends. Please drop me a line.

P. S. My address is

"T" Street Station
Washington, D. C.
